Acheson Will Make Report In Closed Session

Secretary To Report To Congress On Big Three Sessions

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—Secretary of State Acheson will make a full report to a joint session of Congress May 31 behind closed doors on the Big Three foreign ministers' meeting in London.

The announcement was made by Senate Majority Leader Lucas, of Illinois, at the White House this morning after a conference between President Truman and Democratic congressional leaders.

Lucas said that the suggestion for the session came from Acheson himself.

To Report To President

Acheson also will make a report privately to the President.

Earlier, the Senate Foreign Relations committee revealed that it would ask Acheson for a full report on the London conference decision to pool the armed might of Atlantic Pact countries.

Chairman Connally (D) Texas, today praised the decision as one likely to save this country money by cutting down, eventually, on its military expenses.

However, Connally declined to comment on the proposal of French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman for the integration of French and German steel and coal industries.

Connally explained he wanted more information on the Schuman plan. He said his committee will ask Acheson for a "fill-in" on this plan as well as on the London conference of Atlantic Pact foreign ministers.

Acheson is on his way back by boat from London and is expected to land Saturday. No date has been set for his report to the Senate committee.

Work on the installation of the giant clock above the West Side sub-station of the Power Company has begun. Workmen clamber over the steel structure with agility during the placing of the big timepiece. Sidewalk foremen are enjoying the scene which helps idle their time away.

The first county high school class to complete their graduation programs will be Lincoln high school at Ellwood City when diplomas are presented to 295 seniors this evening, Thursday evening, Union high school and Harlansburg high will present diplomas to a total of 84 students.

Quite a number of the older model cars which were quite popular in the late twenties are making their appearance on the streets again. Young men who are winding up their high school careers are responsible for a number of the jalopies being seen on city streets.

A dangerous practice is being followed by boys and girls on busy thoroughfares about the city and that is playing ball and other games in the middle of the streets. Many of the youngsters disregard fast moving traffic and motorists making good use of the driving skill and brakes daily narrowly avoid hitting the children. An East Side girl of seven or eight was almost an accident victim Monday evening as she played in the street.

Hope For Early Solution Of U.N. Chinese Impasse

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., May 23.—President Truman's reaffirmation of faith in the United Nations in his report to congress brightened hopes at Lake Success today for early solution of the impasse over the Chinese issue.

U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie will press the need for such an early solution when he meets Mr. Truman and Secretary of State Acheson early next week.

Lie in Paris

Lie has been conferring in Paris with top French officials and will meet with British leaders today.

In Paris and London his primary stress is on the urgent necessity of removing the roadblocks to full scale peace negotiations at U. N., a step which calls for the dropping of the boycott by Russia and the dropping of Nationalist China from U. N. ranks.

In the Kremlin, Lie spent 30 minutes last week conferring on the cold war with Premier Stalin and left Moscow with the encouragement of the outcome of his exploratory peace mission.

Before departure for London, Lie indicated to top aides at Lake Success that he has some reason for optimism, although cautioning them to forego any conclusions that the worst is over.

Will Be Decisive

He made it clear, however, that his talk next week with President Truman will decide in large part which way the wind will blow.

According to hints dropped by Lie at Lake Success headquarters, the French have made no commitment on the Chinese issue but have an open mind on it.

They are agreed in principle to the convoking of a special foreign ministers' meeting of the security council—provided the Chinese issue is settled beforehand.

Foreign Minister Schumann also gave open endorsement to Lie's efforts in that respect, along with similar underscoring of his mission by the MRP (the Bidault majority political party).

Former Lustron Head Unable To Make Payments

COLUMBUS, O., May 23.—(INS)—Carl G. Strandlund, former Lustron corporation president, contends he is unable to make substantial payment of $15,500,000 in personal loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Strandlund filed his answer yesterday in U. S. district court. The ex-chief of the pre-fab housing plant said he couldn't possibly pay off the notes he signed to get his plant into operation.

The RFC brought foreclosure proceedings against Lustron and its president last February for $37,500,000 in unpaid loans. The plant is under receivership now and is continuing to produce homes, but Strandlund was fired from his $50,000-a-year job.

The plant will be sold June 6 at an auction.

East German Communists Not To Overrun All Berlin

French Sources Say Russians Have Made Promises To United Nations Secretary On Demonstration Program Next Sunday

By KINGSBURY SMITH
European General Manager
International News Service
PARIS, May 23.—French sources said today that United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie was promised by the Russians that they would direct east German Communists not to attempt to overrun all of Berlin at Whitsuntide next weekend.

Report Promise Made

The promise to call off the German Communist threat was said by these authoritative quarters to have been made to Lie on his recent visit to Moscow, when he conferred with Premier Stalin.

Lie was said to have passed this information along to the French government prior to his departure from France for London today to see British officials.

Lie was quoted as saying Soviet leaders assured him that they would restrain the East German Communists from causing any serious trouble in Western Berlin over Whitsuntide.

The East Germans conducted a lengthy propaganda campaign threatening that 500,000 Communist youth would march into the city on the May 27-28 weekend. The word campaign slackened considerably after the West Germans, supported by the Allies, made a

U.N. Secretary In New Peace Mission Talks

Confers In London With British Officials After Stalin Visit

LONDON, May 23.—(INS)—U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie plunged into new "peace mission" talks with British officials today on his arrival from Paris after visiting Premier Stalin in Moscow.

Lie declined comment on his progress in attempting to end the cold war.

He visited Foreign Secretary Bevin during the day and is slated to talk again with Premier Attlee tonight before flying to Washington tomorrow to confer as soon as possible with President Truman.

Deny Peace Proposal

The French News Agency in Paris said meanwhile that Lie had presented to the Big Four a formal memorandum on a 20-year peace plan he outlined in a Washington speech on March 21. The French foreign office denied this and Lie's press secretary, Wilder Foot, said:

"Mr. Lie went to Moscow to try and end the deadlock among the four powers and admittedly regarded the Chinese problem as the key to the log-jam at present halting peaceful international relations."

"He definitely did not present a plan for a 20-year peace. He regarded his Moscow trip as an exploratory mission and did not go with the intention of negotiating. He carried no formal proposals. He hoped that his trip eventually would prove worthwhile."

Three Guilty Of Bookmaking

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—Three men were found guilty of bookmaking by a Brooklyn jury today in an outgrowth of an investigation into alleged tie-ups between police and gamblers.

Assistant District Attorney Helfand said the convictions were the first against bookmakers ever handed down by a King's county court.

The three men were arrested in a raid by special investigators of District Attorney Miles F. McDonald in a tobacco shop allegedly used as a bookie headquarters.

Judge Louis Goldstein applauded the verdict, handed down shortly after 5 p. m., and said, "this will serve notice on racketeers."

The three men, who face maximum sentences of one year in jail on each count, were Samuel Jacobs, 41, found guilty on three counts, Joseph Sacco, 20, on eight counts, and Joseph Gross, 36, on two counts.

Murder Of Girl Is Still Not Solved

MILLVILLE, N. J., May 23.—(INS)—The murder of pretty Loraine Hess remained unsolved today as police admitted that the eighth suspect, a three-times convicted sex offender—apparently was at home in bed the night she was strangled.

Robert John Albert, 31, a chemist and church choir member, was still being held on an open charge. However, his alibi was unshaken in more than 24 hours of questioning.

BING 'STEALS' TOURNEY CROWDS'

ST. ANDREWS, SCOTLAND—Crooner Bing Crosby may not be leading in the British Amateur Golf tournament, but in this pre-tourney practice round, he certainly leads in popularity. Tourney favorite Willie Turnesa advanced through the opening round, but Crosby, who was eliminated by J. K. Wilson of Scotland, 3 and 2, kept right on stealing the crowds.

Presbyterian Assembly Is Against Mercy Killings

CINCINNATI, O., May 23.—(INS)—The 162nd General Assembly of the Presbyterian church of the United States of America stood solidly today against the legalization of mercy killings.

Spurred by some persons who have had occasion to observe such a killing, known as Euthanasia, the assembly overwhelmingly approved a resolution condemning the practice yesterday.

Rejects Mercy Killings

The resolution which rejected mercy killings on the ground that they are in direct contradiction of the commandment "thou shalt not kill," was sponsored by a delegation from Chester, Pa.

A Chester man recently shot and killed his brother who was suffering from cancer.

The resolution said legal approval of Euthanasia would "open the door to the most dangerous and vicious practices."

Youth Plunges 22 Stories To Death In Chicago

CHICAGO, May 23.—(INS)—A 26-year-old former Marquette University student plunged 22 stories to his death on Chicago's Michigan avenue last night in full view of thousands of evening shoppers.

His body hit the pavement only a few feet from a group of more than 50 persons waiting for home-bound buses.

Police identified the ex-student as Joseph Donald Amicucci, of Sterling, Ill., a junior in Marquette's engineering school at Milwaukee until he withdrew from classes March 15.

Poised Like Diver

He plunged from the roof of the 22-story Lucien Lelong building where he was seen poised like a diver just before the head-first drop.

A brother, Francis, 28, said Joseph sometimes seemed "confused" about his choice of engineering as a career and frequently dropped out of school to take jobs.

The youth was an overseas army veteran.

Striking Employees Of Greek Government Ordered To Return

Meanwhile, the bank clerks cancelled a scheduled strike and telephone and telegraph workers returned to their jobs with promises that their claim for overtime pay would be satisfied.

Note Delivered To Moscow By Three Nations

Claim Sovietized German Army Of 50,000 In Existence

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, May 23.—The United States, Britain and France called on Russia today to "dissolve immediately" a Sovietized German army of 50,000 men created in its zone in Germany.

A note to this effect was delivered to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow today by American Ambassador Alan G. Kirk. Parallel notes were sent by Britain and France.

Based On Big Three Decision

The move is one of the first based on decisions reached in London by the foreign ministers of the big three western powers.

The note declared that the United States feels "grave concern" at the development of this force, described as a police body but which has "by reason of its military training and equipment the character of an army."

The U. S. noted that the Soviet government has often spoken of its desire for peace. The note stated:

"Such verbal protestations, however, can hardly be expected to receive credence among the free peoples of the world when the Soviet government is simultaneously creating military force of considerable size and strength in Germany in violation of its solemn international commitments."

Destroyed World Confidence

"By this and other like actions the Soviet government has destroyed world confidence in the sincerity of its promises and has created throughout the world widespread doubt as to its pacific intentions."

"If the Soviet government wishes to restore in some measure international confidence in its alleged attachment to peace, it cannot fail to dissolve immediately the militarized units which it has set up in eastern Germany."

The creation of this force was charged to be a specific violation of numerous international agreements entered into on numerous occasions before and after V-E day.

The U. S. charged that the force violated the Yalta agreement, a declaration signed with Ger. Dwight D. Eisenhower on June 5, 1945, the Potsdam protocol, a four-power agreement of September 1945.

State Court Upholds Cigarette Tax Law

HARRISBURG, May 23.—(INS)—The authority of the commonwealth to penalize possessors of untaxed cigarettes in Pennsylvania today carried the State Supreme court's stamp of approval.

The high tribunal upheld an act of 1935 as supplemented in 1947 in an appeal of A. D. Flickinger, of Allentown, from a Lehigh county court validation of the statutes.

Flickinger, penalized in 1948 for possessing 322 cartons of cigarettes lacking Pennsylvania tax stamps, contended the statutes contravened interstate commerce laws and the criminal code.

Open More Bids On Turnpike

HARRISBURG, May 23.—(INS)—Unofficial low bids totaling $4,658,438 today were submitted to the Pennsylvania Turnpike commission for construction of 7.09 miles of the toll road's western extension.

The Harrison Construction Co., of Pittsburgh, bid $2,236,367 for construction of a 3.15 mile stretch in Hampton, West Deer and Indiana townships, Allegheny county.

The Patterson Construction Co., of Monongahela, asked for $2,422,071 to build a 3.94 mile section in Indiana township, Allegheny county.

Webster and Webster, Inc., of East Hartford, Conn., submitted an apparent low bid of $699,862 for supplying 1,108,258 feet of right-of-way fencing for the 100 mile eastern extension.

The commission will open bids May 31 on three more sections of the western extension. Following this letting only two more sections totaling 7.5 miles will remain for bidding.

Oil up the garden rake and hoe, and plant the packs of seeds, put out tomatoes and some squash to fill your garden needs. Get down that faded old straw hat, those ragged garden pants, and put some green paint on your thumb, leave nothing now to chance. For garden time is here at last, and time to start to work, don't let the weather keep you back, don't let the youngsters shirk. It's time to hit the garden spot, and make the hobby pay, so out my friend and get to work, it's 70 today.

Mayor John F. Xevé today issued a request to housewives to notify police headquarters immediately if a canvasser knocks upon a door, then shows his foot inside to prevent closing of the door.

"This constitutes disorderly conduct," the mayor said. "Housewives should ask solicitors for credentials and if they fail to produce them, police should be notified."

He explained that every solicitor or canvasser must have a permit and it must be shown when a resident asks to see it, he concluded.

ber 20, 1945, and the control council law of August 20, 1946.

Called For Disarmament

All of these agreements provided for the complete disarmament and demilitarization of Germany and the abolition of military and quasi-military organizations as well as military training and propaganda.

The force against which the U. S. protested is called the main administration for training (hauptverwaltung fuer ausbildung). The American note said:

"It is not an ordinary police force and it does not have ordinary police duties."

"It receives basic infantry, artillery and armored training and is equipped with military weapons, including machine guns, howitzers, anti-aircraft, cannon, mortars, and tanks. It must be regarded, therefore, as a military force."

Evidence Of Existence

An official statement issued with the note said that "judicial evidence" of the existence of the force was obtained on April 13 when German police in the U. S. sector of Berlin arrested two officers and eight enlisted men of the Soviet zone police.

The East Germans were armed with an automatic assault rifle, two machine pistols and eight automatic pistols. They were convicted of wearing the uniform of an illegal paramilitary organization, illegally possessing weapons and transporting war materials.

Full confessions were obtained from two, Heinz Erich Nocht and Wilhelm Rolf. Corroborating evidence has been given by deserters from East German forces. It asserted that the force is composed of 39 alert units to train enlisted personnel and at least 11 officer training schools.

show of strength in preparation to meet any such threat.

Damper On March

According to Lie, the Soviet promise to put the damper on the youth march was made as a conciliatory gesture in connection with the U. N. chief's efforts to end the deadlock between Russia and the western powers over U. N. issues.

Lie was believed to have told Stalin that there was no hope he could persuade the western powers to consider a compromise solution on the representation of Chinese Communists instead of the Nationalists in the U. N. If Russia permitted the East German Communists to invade Western Berlin.

Lie also reportedly made clear to Stalin that the western powers are prepared to risk war in order to maintain their position in Berlin.

He was said to have declared that if Russia wished to give evidence of its desire for peace, it should prevent a dangerous situation from developing in the former German capital.

Viewed Cynically

Some western diplomats are inclined to view the Soviet move cynically since they believe Moscow decided prior to Lie's visit not to risk a showdown with the west over Berlin for the present.

Nevertheless, Lie is being given credit for getting a definite promise from the Russians, thus helping to cause of peace.

French officials are inclined to think that Moscow will fulfill the promise.

According to these authorities confirmation already has been received in reports that German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht has returned to Berlin from Moscow with instructions to see that the Communists cause no serious disorders in Berlin over Whitsuntide.

One bandit cut down Campbell with a blast from a sawed off shotgun while the other forced another man to turn over the cash. The bandits escaped, never to be apprehended.

Thomas Outhwaite, who has charge of the newspaper stand on the Diamond, has made the stand attractive, according to a report to

Last night's rains were not purely local, according to one motorist, who drove here from Westmoreland county. He stated that he passed through about three thunder storms on the way, and that rain fell constantly all over the western Pennsylvania area.

In the front yard of the John W. Mellowaith home on Hazelcroft avenue there is a dogwood tree which seems unable to make up its mind. The tree is in bloom now, half of it being white bloom and half pink bloom. It's a freak, but a lovely freak.

A club golf team was organized at the meeting. Roy Burnside will be coach of the team.

A dinner in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burns will be held by the club on June 6. Mr. Burns was elected district governor at the recent district convention. Filmore Campbell will be in charge of arrangements for the affair.

DID YOU?

Did you give him a lift? He's a brother of man, And bearing about all the burden he can.
Did you give him a smile? He was downcast and blue, And the smile would have helped him to battle it through.

Did you give him your hand? He was slipping down-hill, And the world, so I fancied, was using him ill.
Did you give him a word? Did you show him the road, Or did you just let him go on with his load?

Sunday Program Still Mystery

Less than a week remains before the proposed gigantic Communist youth rally in Berlin and it still is a mystery as to whether Soviet Russia will make this a major test of East-West strength or let the affair go by default.

The demonstration will take place in any event, of course. But there are mounting indications that it may be confined solely to the eastern sector of Berlin, reducing the threat of violent clashes and eliminating the possibility that Communist fanatics might try to seize the entire city.

Can Handle Situation

United States, British and French officials remain convinced of their complete ability to handle any crisis or emergency.

They say their limited forces are strong enough to cope with any conceivable situation.

This is difficult to believe, however, in view of the fact that the Russians now have a well-trained "police army" of half a million men, jackbooted, smartly uniformed and well-armed, who obviously could steam-roller through and mow down the allied force that does not exceed 10 thousand men.

According to all the rules and all advance predictions, that would mean war. And the best of international opinion is unanimous that the Russians do not want war, for the present at least. And if Trygve Lie of the United Nations is to be believed, perhaps they do not want it at all.

Patient Odyssey

The patient odyssey of the U. N. executive through the war-weary capitals of Europe is a flickering candle of hope against the grim background of Berlin as Whit-Sunday approaches.

In the minds of older folk there must be sharp and poignant memories of other Whit-Sundays in the past.

This holy day always meant to the German people throughout their history.

For centuries the emphasis was upon the religious aspects, with prayers for good crops after the spring planting and the drinking of May wine in hopes for a vintage year along the banks of the Rhine and the Moselle.

Then, with expanding German imperialism, the day became one of military pageants with Kaiser Wilhelm II astride a white or dappled horse.

And this was revived with greater splendor in the days of Adolf Hitler. In addition to parades and spectacles, there were state-supervised picnics and pastorals in the countryside at which young fry—later to develop into soldiers and nurses in the service of the fatherland—were initiated into the transitory mock glories of Nazism.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, J. H. D.

DON'T SHRIEK AT NAUGHTY CHILD

In most literature designed to counsel parents there's relatively little emphasis on poise, serenity and self-control in the father and mother.

A mother can't keep her emotions wholly hid, even from the tiny infant. Furthermore, emotions are more contagious than measles and the incubation period is usually instantaneous.

There's a curious kind of doctrine that it's better to blow up than to go around with pent-up emotions like anger. The assumption here is that there is no possible alternative. For example, a number of writers tell mothers that, while they never should deliberately smack a young child, it is all right to smack him if he vexes them enough. But as no one has defined "enough," many parents suppose they have expert approval to smack the youngster and presumably to shriek at him almost any time. They suppose they have no special responsibility for self-control. For some persons, in certain situations, deliberate self-release might be a practical expedient. But we hardly could accept this as a working objective.

Strong Fears

We will not get very far by saying, "We won't let ourselves have strong fears and angers," or "we will make ourselves feel more tender and affectionate toward the child." Yet with sufficient effort and sufficient thought when we are calm, we might be able to temper the expression of hampering emotions and cultivate the expression of favorable emotions in ourselves. Certainly, as we sense the need of emotional self-control and development, we have a strong motive to try harder to set the stage that our fears and angers might be less frequent, intense and explosive and that our promoting emotions might be more frequent and healthy in their expression.

We can control emotions in ourselves and others as we are able to control our attention and activity and theirs. There is one simple way in which any parent can further a healthy emotional atmosphere in the family—by cultivating self-mastery of the voice and tongue. Blessed is the child who never hears a shrieking voice or lacerating word from the parents.

How strange that, while the hand as a controlling instrument during the child's early years has been taken, ear-piercing voices and poisonous tongues of parents have rarely been condemned. And yet from the mouths of parents pour forth, perhaps, a thousand more cruelties than from their hands.

The chief reason for so much speech barbarity in homes is that the mother supposes she has no other way to restrain her child than with her voice and tongue. Certainly the young mother has been given very little advice by experts to help her control her child without using painful voice and speech on him.

Trygve Lie spent an hour and a half with Stalin and came out with bad news. Stalin's health is good.

It's getting so every time a Hollywood star goes to Europe, he or she acquires suitors. Europeans sure do go for American royalty.

You don't hear any complaints from Texans about those hailstones as big as hen eggs. Texans wouldn't want any hailstones as small as other states' hailstones.

The encouraging and hopeful remarks made by Trygve Lie after his conference with Premier Marshal Stalin in Moscow seem to lend credence to persistent reports that the Kremlin has ordered East German Communists to go slow instead of precipitating a crisis on Sunday.

If this is so, there will be an anti-climax with few parallels.

When the Communist youth day plans first were announced, agitators called upon the young folk of eastern Berlin to sally across sector borders, invade the western areas in force and—presumably—find themselves greeted by Communist-inclined west Berliners who would join them in a "Putsch."

Reaction Immediate

The reaction of the western powers was immediate.

Every major spokesman of the allied high commission announced without delay that western Berlin would be defended in any such emergency.

The armed forces were put through a series of military maneuvers that included sham battling with civilian rioters. These were climaxed on Saturday by a vast U. S. army day celebration in Berlin clearly designed to impress would-be troublemakers.

In the last few weeks the Communist tub-thumping has died down. Demonstrations on May Day showed the strength and determination of west Berliners themselves to reject Communism and continue to reap the benefits of western Democratic rule.

The recent Communist silence may be a snare and a delusion to shield secret undercover operations which will flare up into rioting and disorder on Sunday.

But for the moment the chances seem to be against it. Berlin remains on guard, but the vaunted demonstration may wind up as a peaceful parade or even as a sluggish proof of Moscow's inability to whip up enthusiasm as of yore.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

"MORE"

He is learning to speak and his words are but few, But it seems every day that he gains one or two.

"Book," he says, and I read 'till my throat's getting sore. I put down the book, and he says to me: "More!"

If his mother says: "Come! Up to bed you must go," With emphasis proper he answers her: "No!"

If cookies are served to the ladies with tea, They know what he wants when he says to them: "Me!"

No grammar as yet and no sentence complete, But with howling and wailing the doctor he'll greet.

"No! No!" he will cry at the first sight of him. The needles he uses are painful though slim.

What a nice choice of words at the starting of speech. No tongue-twisting syllables school teachers teach.

Just words with clear meaning I've mentioned before. And that over and over insistence on "More!"

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan

Arrangements are being made for your Congressman to get you a piece of the White House regardless of how you voted for him . . . if you're sure you did.

A part of the White House will be saved so that Republicans can't get enough of the pieces to put together and start a new one.

But they're not much interested in accumulating the White House planks and plaster . . . just give them the key and they'll be satisfied.

There's quite a scramble in Washington for souvenirs . . . hostesses are rated by whether their husbands are of six-plank or two-splinter importance.

There's no real hurry on completing renovations . . . the present lease-holder expects to sleep away from home quite a bit from now through the next election.

But if you want a plank, write to your Congressman . . . he can get you one from an old platform if nothing else.

From Me To You

By MESEALL

How's your thinking on the Post Office Cut-back . . . we still don't think much of the order from the top man . . . It looks like there is much confusion in the bookkeeping department . . . But then why should that be such news . . . there is much confusion in almost all of the Federal Government's bookkeeping systems . . . Figures we have been reading substantiating the cut-back merely seem to be false fronts.

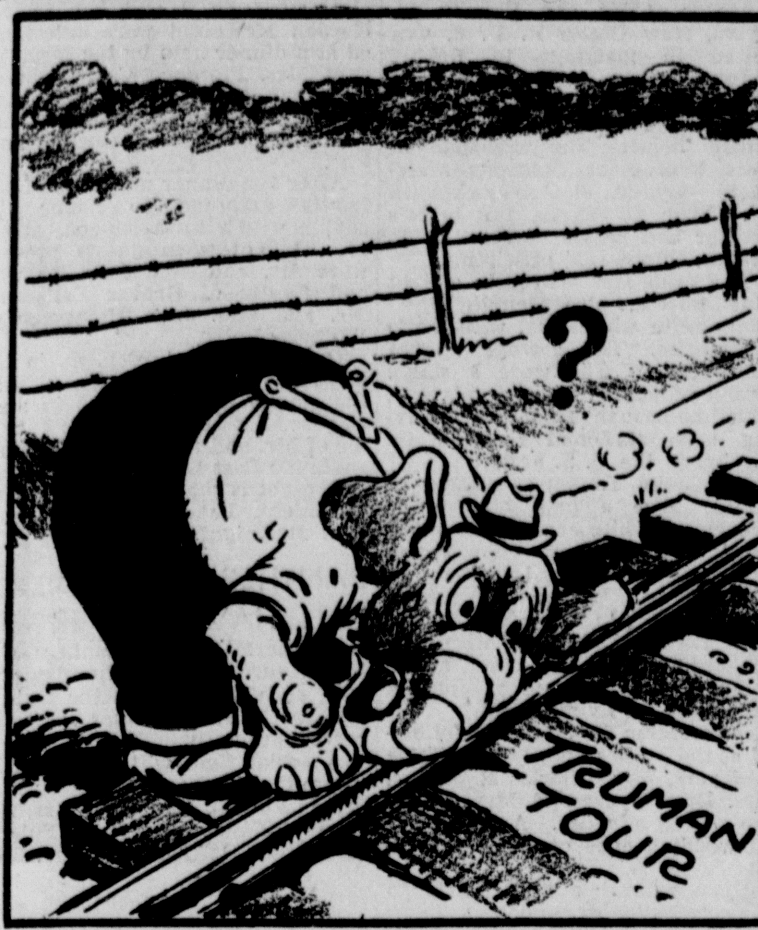

John Wanamaker was Postmaster General in 1889 . . . at that time he said he could take over the U. S. Post Office (then in the red too) and run it as a private enterprise on strictly business lines and show a profit for the Government and himself . . . the offer was then declined . . . The Hoover Commission examined the Post Office and the report from the group expressed much the same faults that Wanamaker talked about.

The Post Office is a creaky, overcentralized organizational structure; outmoded methods and equipment; cumbersome budgeting and accounting systems; a maze of tangled regulations and restrictions; hidden subsidies . . . and POLITICS . . . the people who work in the Post Office Department were not in 1889 or now to blame . . . Postal employees work hard as a rule and their wages and salaries are not high . . . But ambition is discouraged . . . Why? One reason would be the political selection of Postmasters.

The Hoover Commission and a group of management engineers studied the situation carefully and in part they said . . . "About $140 millions a year could be saved by modernizing the organization, methods, and equipment of the Post Office. Annual losses could be cut an additional $114 millions a year by fixing new rates on certain items."

It's time, we think, that we the people of the U. S. stop having the wool pulled over our eyes. It's time we do something, and this Post Office Cut-back program is a good place to start . . . there are other things . . . but right now let's get going . . . but remember, keep your eyes open . . . this Postal business might just be a coverup on some other more costly Presidential shenanigans.

'MULE TRAIN'

Causing Unhappiness

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

I'm sure they are quite innocent of what they are doing, but the boys in the advertising racket are causing untold unhappiness to lots of people these days.

They are doing it with a form of salesmanship which states that the buyer of such and such an article automatically becomes a man who stands head and shoulders above the crowd, endowed with gifts not given to many.

The buyers of merchandise peddled in this manner (so strong is the lesson of advertising) begin to believe what they have read, and try to act accordingly. Then comes disillusionment, then unhappiness and, in more than one instance, a nervous breakdown.

Take For Example

For example, take the ad for a certain make of watch, which will call Alpha, that being about as far as you can get from its real name. The wearers of this watch, the copywriters declare, tie their own trout flies, buzz around the golf course in burr or better, and always have two on the aisle at theatrical openings.

Now it happens that I own an Alpha (stainless steel case, alligator strap) and when I read the advertisement I realized for the first time what a dismal failure I was. My one and only effort to tie a trout fly resulted in something that resembled one of Hedda Hopper's hats. My best round of golf was a shambles. I felt a little ashamed about having a nip out of the bottle in the kitchen, when the copywriters have made it so clear that it should be served only by a white-coated butler in surroundings no less sumptuous than the play room of the Taj Mahal.

Isn't there anything manufactured for plain, old citizens who know they are plain, old citizens and don't want to ape anyone on earth?

If there is, send me a gross, C. O. D.

—and that over a resort course designed for men in their late 90's—was 103. And as for always having two choice seats at first nights—well, I'm lucky if I get balcony seats for the revival of "Tobacco Road" or "Able's Irish Rose."

Reading that Alpha ad has put me in the dumps so deeply that I'm not sure that I care to go on living. What does the future hold for me? Guess I'll just have to give up the watch, being much too unworthy of it, and go back to asking the time of strangers, or move to London where I can get the time of day from Big Ben.

Just As Guilty

Just as guilty of bringing unhappiness as the Alpha is the ad for a brand of clothes. The man wearing this particular suit is always pictured as taking off for Paris by air, or lounging against the bar in an expensive hotel, or clipping coupons with shears of a size usually reserved for hedges.

Fortunately, I don't have a suit of this kind but I know quite a few men who do, and they are as disconsolate a lot as you'd find anywhere. It makes them writhe to know that they have to wear this suit when catching an overcrowded bus to do eight hours' tiresome work in a hot office when, by all rights, they should be wearing it while in conference with the combined board of directors of General Electric, General Motors, General Mills and General Eisenhower.

As for the ads of strong spirits—who hasn't felt a little ashamed about having a nip out of the bottle in the kitchen, when the copywriters have made it so clear that it should be served only by a white-coated butler in surroundings no less sumptuous than the play room of the Taj Mahal.

Isn't there anything manufactured for plain, old citizens who know they are plain, old citizens and don't want to ape anyone on earth?

If there is, send me a gross, C. O. D.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In Philadelphia, the William Dorrance company published a book called "Missouri Lawyer" by John T. Barker. One chapter deals with a case tried before Harry Truman when he was a judge, and is very complimentary to him and his handling of the affair.

The President read the book and was deeply pleased. On White House stationery, he wrote a note to William Dorrance, expressing his satisfaction, praising the book and ordering a dozen copies at the regular retail price.

Dorrance, a dyed-in-the-wool Republican, didn't react as people normally would to a personal letter from the President of the United States. Silent and unsmiling, he tossed it carelessly on the order clerk's desk. The order clerk was more enthusiastic. "Mr. Dorrance," he said excitedly, "don't you think we ought to give the President of the country a discount?" Dorrance thought it over for a moment, and then said grudgingly, "All right, give him 5 per cent." And so twelve copies of "Missouri Lawyer" went to President Truman with either comment nor acknowledgement, billed at a 5-per-cent discount.

Folks Of Fame

Ex-King Peter of Yugoslavia was born September 6, 1923, the eldest son of a king. He went to England to obtain an education, but was recalled home by the assassination of his father. In 1941 he took the royal power into his own hands, but his country was overrun by the Germans in World War II, and he and his government fled. Today he and his wife and small son live in London. He visited the United States in 1942 and admits he likes American slang and swing bands—in fact, he used to play in a jazz band at home in the good old days before the war.

Bible Thought

We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brethren abideth in death. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer; and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him—I John 3: 14, 15.

Background Of Famine

(By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 23.—Delicate is the word for the diplomacy with which State Department authorities are moving around the famine relief problem in China. To rephrase a current popularism, they approach this problem not so much in sneakers as in the ballet slippers of tiptoe caution. Like most Americans, these officials are soft-hearted about hungry people and want to help them. But any flat-footed move to do so would be a mistake. There will be no dramatic suggestion, for instance, that we open psychological warfare by bombarding Communist China with broad leaves. The Chinese people wouldn't get many leaves, and the American people wouldn't get credit for their humanitarian motives.

To understand what the State Department is up against, the little-known background may be reviewed.

Super-Famine Building Up

For fully eight months now, the Department has known that a super-famine was building up in China. Hundreds of letters from persons who know the situation have come into the Department, urging that steps be taken to alleviate the suffering. The State Department is certain that Congress and the country will react even more sympathetically when the full facts of starvation are better known. But this sympathy, to be meaningful, must come from the grassroots. It cannot have even the appearance of being inspired by the State Department.

Although famines are almost annual occurrences in China, this one is "different" for a number of reasons. Its magnitude is almost beyond the conception of well-fed Americans. Department officials say off-record that they have no solid figures, but that 40 million wouldn't be a "bold" estimate of the number of Chinese "seriously affected." Deaths by starvation are expected to run from 2 million to 10 million.

There is a reason for the wide range in the estimated death toll. For one thing, this famine of 1950 is not localized as most Chinese famines have been. The food shortage exists in the food-growing area, roughly the region between Shanghai and Peiping. There is now a mass migration of unknown size from the food-growing areas into the non-growing areas, a reversal of the usual order.

Another Unknown Factor

Another unknown factor is the variety of causes behind the famine. Some of the causes are natural—flood, drought and blight. But others are artificial—bad bureaucracy, transportation shortages, maintenance of standing armies. One more artificial cause—and this is the key one—is thought by some observers to be present. An unestimated number of deaths may be "programmed" deaths. That is, the Communist economic experts may be solving China's over-population problem by planned starvation.

With this background in view, we can better understand the State Department's need for delicacy. No matter how soft-hearted Congress becomes between now and adjournment, there is no chance that China will get government-to-government aid from the U. S. Even if this were politically possible, the famine is so big that the entire $100 million of Far Eastern funds couldn't stem the disaster which is certain to get worse instead of better.

In Lap Of Private Charity

Thus the problem of China aid is being dropped into the lap of private charity. Not many people can be saved, but a few is better than none at all. Aside from the Red Cross, there are several charity agencies duly registered with the State Department as volunteer, non-profit organizations. At least one of these is known to be infiltrated with leftist personnel, but the State Department isn't going to be too curious about political coloration at this point. Any bona-fide group that could get aid to the Chinese people will be allowed to do so. There are only two conditions attached—(a) the Chinese beneficiaries must know that the food came from the U. S. and (b) there must be no discrimination between Communists and non-Communists when the food is distributed.

State Department officials are sympathetic but skeptical about it all. They hope that some hungry mouths will be fed, but they doubt it. The commissars of China don't trust our humanitarian moves. That being the case, State Department officials can say little and do less to promote famine relief, even though they're in favor of it.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"Anybody, whether he be a graduate from a college or from the Third Reader, can understand what he writes."

That is one of the nicest compliments ever paid me—and one of the greatest praises that can be bestowed on any man or woman who writes a novel, an article or a letter.

By substituting the word "says" for "writes," it also goes for speakers at banquets, luncheons, political meetings and bridge parties.

Incidentally, the fellow who paid me the compliment is a unique character. His name is William S. Troxel, and he writes a daily column in Pennsylvania-Dutch dialect under the heading "Pumpernickle Bill." It appears in the Allentown Morning Call.

Somehow I always get away from my main subject and start to talk about something else.

But don't you have the same experience? Doesn't one thought bring on another until you get so mixed up that the whole thing becomes something like hash?

I doubt whether there is another column written in Pennsylvania-Dutch in this country. But Allentown is the heart of the Pennsylvania-Dutch section—and so everybody understands and loves "Pumpernickle Bill."

Now back to my theme. Why is it that so many speakers and writers imagine that they are impressing people by using great big words that have to be looked up in the dictionary?

I think it is merely an inferiority complex. A now-famous physician told me that when he was a beginner he used to prescribe "Acetyl-salicylic acid" for his patients. That impressive prescription made his services worth at least another 50 cents.

Now that he gets ten dollars a visit, he simply tells them "Take a couple of aspirins every two hours until you feel better."

He is big enough to call things by their right names.

My wife had a session with a gardener.

He wanted to have him tell her what perennials to put in a couple of flower beds in front of our house.

Now she is all mixed up. She had been thinking of primrose, poppy, columbine and forget-me-not.

But the gardener had different ideas. He suggested Obconica Gigantea, Papaver Nudicaule, Coerulea Hybrid and Alpestris Erecta.

Can you imagine the time she had spelling out these terrible jawbreakers?

And what do you think they turned out to be when she looked them up in her garden catalogue? Primrose, poppy, columbine and forget-me-not!

But you see the gardener gets $1.50 an hour. When we used to pay 50 cents an hour they called flowers by their American names.

Election time is coming. There will be lots of ponderous talking. Get ready for the "acetyl-salicylic acid!"

BUTCH GARDENER

Butch likes to help granddad in the garden. He likes to plant things and watch them grow.

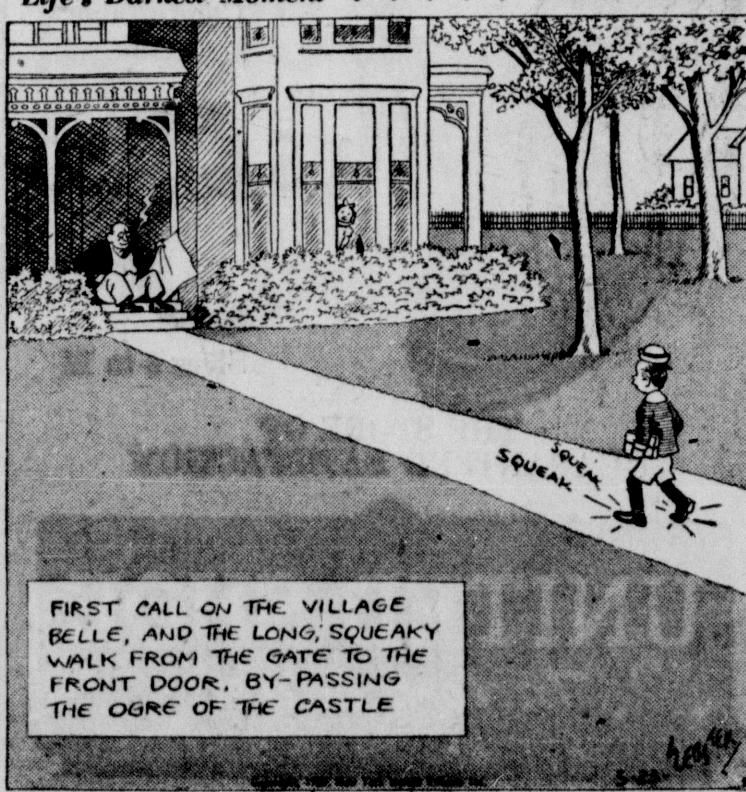

He likes to eat carrots and cucumbers and tomatoes right out of the garden.

Granddad is very careful of his tools. One day Butch forgot and left the rake lying in the grass with the tines sticking up. Granddad stepped on it. The handle flew up. It broke her glasses and gave her a black eye.

Butch was sorry but it didn't help the black eye very much. Garden tools are pretty dangerous if they are left lying on the ground.

Tender Treatment Makes Tender T-Bone

CHICAGO. — (INS)—Don't hit your beef animals with a meat ax—or anything else for that matter—or they will leave a bad impression on your taste.

Never allow a rib roast, or steak—on the hoof—to slip and fall. Treat that animal as if it were your best friend. Unless you are a vegetarian.

This information is the basis for a new system being put into operation at the Chicago stockyards, the nation's largest.

Might be dubbed, "Try a little tenderness—if you want your T-bone tender."

Employees at the yards are being trained to use only canvas slappers on the animals. No goads, clubs, prods, or canes are permitted.

Reason is that the national livestock loss prevention board has estimated that bruised meat losses run to more than 50 million pounds—or $30 million yearly.

The board explains that a black-and-blue chunk of meat can cause a dark brown taste in your mouth.

Bruised portions must be cut out of carcasses. And that causes meat loss.

All unloading ramps, chute pens and other equipment at the yards are being rebuilt so that none of the cattle are apt to get any unnecessary hard knocks.

Not only that, but all stock handlers are going through a training course in the bruise-free handling of stock. It is planned to extend the course to all employees who come in contact with the "sacred cows."

"American" to be used as an adjective in place of "United States", was officially recommended by Secretary of State John Hay in 1904.

Drilling oil wells by shooting torpedoes into them was first practiced in 1865.

Today's Fashion Flash
By PHYLLIS BATTELLE

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—The color of over-ripe oranges is the juiciest new shade being predicted for fall fashions.

New York designers, who are keeping their "silhouettes" a secret, said today that the one style story they can reveal now is this: "Orange" shades, teamed up with dark brown accessories, will be high in glamour-quotient next autumn.

By "orangey", they refer to a range of colors from bittersweet and coral to rust and copper tones. These hues will be sneaked into tweeds, silks, woolsens and even snazzy brocades for evening wear.

As complements to the orange shade, a smart lady may use brown, black, navy, royal blue or green accessories.

Pfc. Sullivan Back 'Home'

Pfc. William Sullivan wipes his brow after cutting grass at the Margaret Henry Home. Bill, who lived at the Home before entering the Armed Forces, is on furlough from duty with the 29th Infantry on Okinawa.

During armed forces celebration last week there was one New Castle soldier home on furlough who did not care to participate in any of the planned events.

He wanted to stay home—and home to this husky 19-year-old boy is the Margaret Henry home on Friendship street, New Castle's Red Feather supported home for children.

He is Bill Sullivan, an army veteran of 21 months, who just completed a tour of duty in Okinawa. Bill's experiences in the army have been varied. He is a private first class in the 29th Infantry. He is in a heavy weapons company and is very proficient with the machine guns. While in high school Private Sullivan did not have time to do much with football but has found time to play for the rugged 29th Infantry eleven. He is a tackle and a good one. His team won 13 out of 15 in the Pacific last fall and traveled to all parts of the Far Eastern theatre by air.

"Sweats Out" Typhoon

The football was perhaps the most interesting experience, but "sweating out" Gloria is one he is unlikely to forget. Gloria was the largest typhoon ever recorded in the Okinawa area. The full force of the big storm did not hit the island severely but it was a very serious threat.

As soon as Bill completed his tour of duty in Okinawa he got a 30-day leave and headed home to Ma Green and Miss Bertha Patterson at the Margaret Henry home. And he has stayed there.

While on Okinawa, Bill and Ma Green exchanged more than 300 letters. Perhaps many of them recalled incidences in the 10-year period he was at the home. Talked about the complete change of home personnel that has transpired since he left. Besides doing all the cooking and caring for the many youngsters at the home, Ma sent packages of clothes and delicacies to Bill on Okinawa.

Wanted To Hurry Back

It is easy to see why this boy, who had been raised to become a credit to the home, the city and the country wanted to hurry back and stay awhile.

During his furlough, Bill has been busy painting, mowing lawn, serving tables and doing any of the many numerous jobs around the house that require a man. His only statement about Margaret Henry home was that he loves the place.

Bill will report to Ft. Riley, Kan., for his next assignment. He may take another three-year hitch as he has liked his army duty and would like to spend some time in Europe.

Wherever he goes, home will always be on Friendship street to Bill.

Commodity Credit Corporation Accused By Congressman

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—The Commodity Credit Corp. is accused of selling $7,301,250 worth of cotton for $4,600,000 in soy beans purchased from Communist China.

Rep. Crawford (R) Mich., stated that the department of agriculture officials "apparently considered it a good deal," but he characterized it as "this foul-smelling mess."

The Congressman declared in a statement that the soy beans are being acquired by the government-owned CCC through the World Commerce Corporation for use by American armed forces in Japan. He said the CCC is bartering 45,000 bales of cotton for 60,000 tons of Manchurian soy beans.

Crawford stated that agriculture department officials claimed that the cotton was surplus and that the price of American soy beans was "much too high" for the armed services to pay.

Crawford estimated the World Commerce Corporation will make a profit of $2,700,000 on the business transaction. He stated further that the CCC could have furnished more than 50 percent of the armed forces requirements from its own stocks and make a profit of 20 cents a bushel on the deal.

The Michigan Republican stated that the World Commerce Corporation was made up of "no five percenters—just 55 percenters."

permission to erect an addition to a building at Delaware and Moody avenues, which would be in harmonious keeping with the rest of the section. She said she is not seeking a change in zoning law.

She said that, if the erection was permitted, space could also be had on their ground for the parking of several score autos.

Mrs. Campbell said it was the desire to dispose of their North street structure, and move their office to the Moody and Delaware avenues plot.

She described the difficult traffic situation in North street where their office and ambulances are now kept. Mrs. Campbell said although it is contrary to law to block an entrance to an ambulance place, it had been necessary at times, to hunt autoists and ask them to move their cars so their ambulance could be used to save lives.

She said the police have been very cooperative.

On their Moody and Delaware avenues plot is a building with four apartments, and they desire to add to this building.

Mayor John F. Haven promised to have council view the district and give Mrs. Campbell an answer.

After calling the meeting to order, Mrs. Martin called for the report of the secretary, treasurer and heads of various committees.

The treasurer, Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune reported a splendid response by the public, but yet a great need for additional subscribers, this being the only means by which funds are raised for the purchase of materials used in the weekly sewings. Each Wednesday a group of faithful women, with the assistance of various religious and civic organizations meet in the nurses' home to do the hand and machine work, so badly needed for the hospital supplies.

Mrs. Robert Garland gave a summary of the year's work over which she and Mrs. Henry Rappold are co-chairmen.

A plea was made by the president for additional workers to attend the weekly sewing, anyone being welcome to take part in the folding, creasing and other hand work regardless of what organization is scheduled for the period. During the past year the average number of volunteer hand workers, supplied by the various societies are 104 per day.

Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed, the hostess serving refreshments assisted by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Reis and Miss Jennie Morgan.

Margaret Truman To Rest This Summer

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—Margaret Truman has announced through her agent that she has cancelled her summer concert engagements because she "needs a rest."

Mildred Shagal, secretary to Miss Truman's agent, James Davidson quoted the President's daughter as explaining: "I have had a very heavy schedule this spring and had a heavy concert and schedule for next fall. I must rest in between if I am to be at my best for future engagements."

Davidson announced in Los Angeles that Miss Truman is cancelling her two July engagements one with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra and one with the New York Philharmonic.

Earlier Miss Shagal said that Miss Truman would not be in the eastern part of the country to fulfill these engagements. But although she said that Miss Truman was not going abroad, she declined to elaborate on her summer plans.

He Doesn't Care Who Passes Him!

ONE of the rarest satisfactions a 1930 Cadillac brings to its owner is serenity.

Watch him briefly in the stream of traffic—and, if he is a normal Cadillac driver, you will quickly sense what we mean. He drives as befits his mood and his requirements, and is quite content to let other people do the same.

Unless he happens to be in a hurry, it is all right with him if another driver wants the honors when the light turns green. He knows that the surplus power in that eager, dynamic engine was put there for his safety and driving ease—and not for dramatic display on the get-away.

And so on the open road. If you wish to drive a little faster than he does, let him know.

He understands that his last two inches of throttle were not put there for the ungracious purpose of dominating the highway. They are there for an emergency—and for that lovely, floating, cruising ride which only a great reserve of power can provide.

So roll along, if you're in a hurry—and the top o' the mornin' to you!

It's a wonderful thing, this feeling of calm confidence in your motor car. It lessens the strain, and increases the pleasure, of every mile you drive.

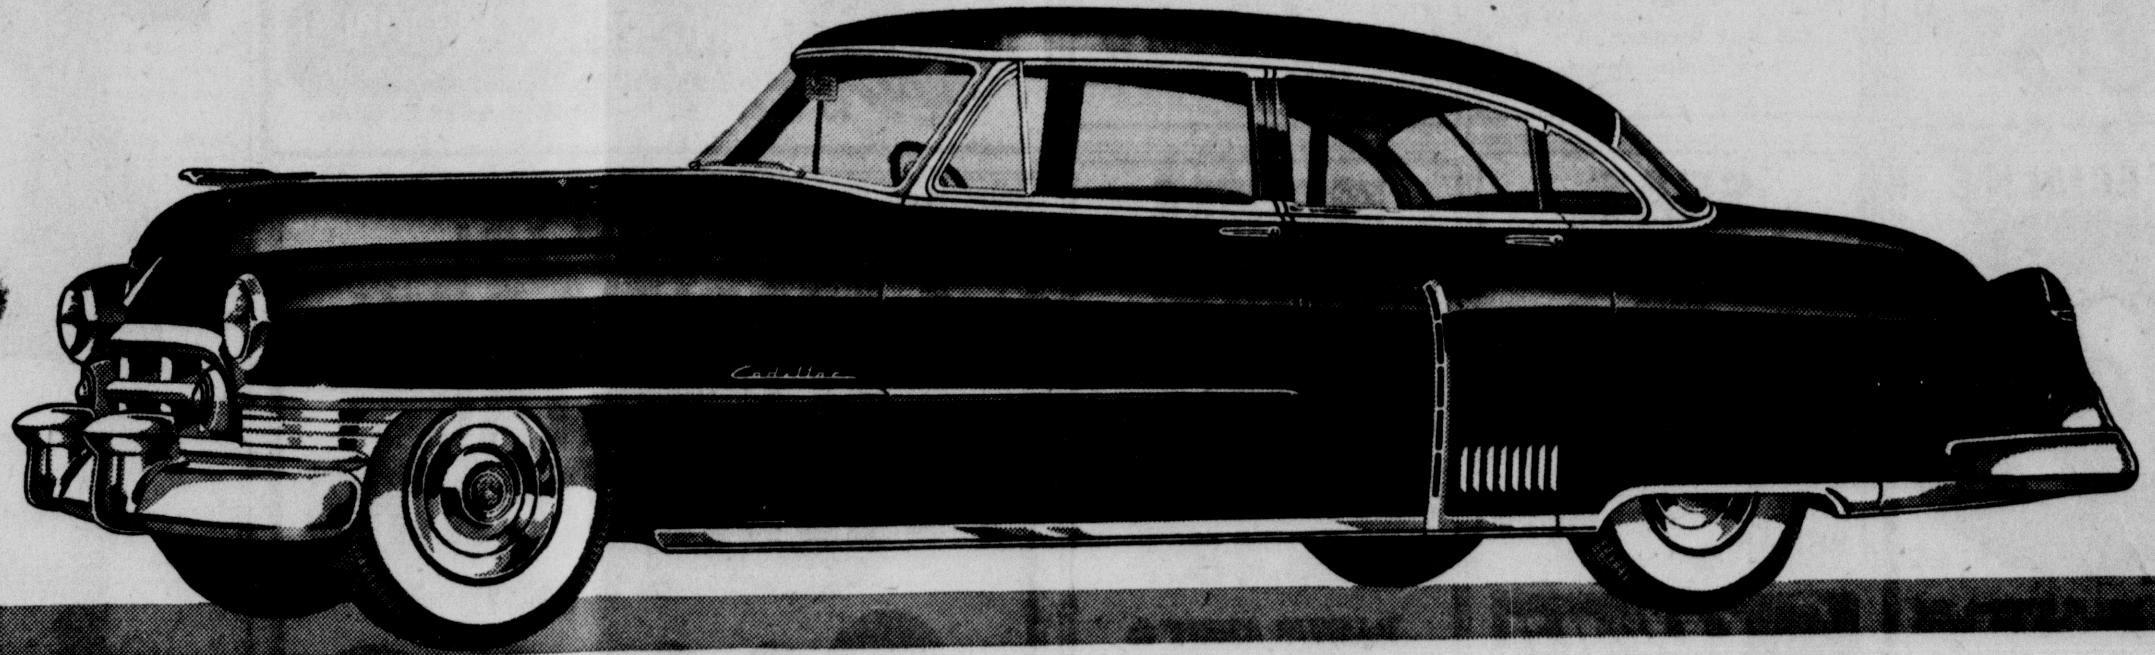

And we're wondering if you realize how easily and practically it can be your own. Listen...

... the lower-priced models in the Cadillac line cost less to buy than the highest-priced models of numerous other cars!

... Cadillac's great high-compression engine is so efficient that a single tankful of gasoline will suffice for a normal full day's drive!

... and when it comes to endurance, the Cadillac record stands by itself. The lifespan of a Cadillac car has never been fully measured!

Surely, these are such practical facts that they should point your way to the joys of a Cadillac. And the car itself can quickly reveal how great these joys can be. Why not come in—and see?

To Dedicate Dormitories At Grove City

(Special To The News)
GROVE CITY, May 23.—The first phase of the Development Program at Grove City college, on Friday, June 9, with the dedication of West Hall, Mary Anderson Pew Dormitory, and South Hall, a dormitory for men, both now rapidly nearing completion.

Just shortly over fifteen months ago ground was broken for these two dormitories on the same day and it is quite fitting that both buildings be dedicated at the same time.

West Hall, an integral unit of the Mary Anderson Pew Dormitory, will accommodate 100 women and will contain a dining room and a large, comfortable lounge as well as an infirmary, matrons quarters and an apartment for an assistant dean.

South Hall, a dormitory for men will accommodate 148 men and will contain an infirmary as well as much-needed storage space and general utility space. Both buildings will be occupied by students for the first time in September 1950.

Preceding the dedication exercises, the Trustees Luncheon will be served in the dining room of the Mary Anderson Pew Dormitory. Many distinguished guests have been invited to attend the dedication program which will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Crawford Hall.

H. J. Crawford, Vice-President of the Board of Trustees, will present the buildings to Dr. Weir C. Ketter, President of the college. The Rev. Ralph C. McAfee, D.D., minister of the Church of the Covenant, Erie, Pa., and a member of the Board of Trustees, will make the main address.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

IMPROVING APPEARANCE
"From the time I was a baby orphan I was reared by a strict grand-aunt on a farm seven miles from the nearest village, where I attended the grade and high school. My aunt taught me the necessary social graces, but I have never had an opportunity to use them until now when she has died and left me a comfortable income. I have moved into the city and live with my cousin but they leave me out of their parties and I over-hear them criticising my plainness of dress and lack of make-up. How can I improve my appearance without asking their advice and without appearing fast?"

Answer: Go to the most exclusive beauty parlor in town, ask for its manager and tell her you have been away for a long time and want her advice as to making you look smart to a conservative but sophisticated degree. Today, unless she is really deformed or disfigured, every woman has a fair chance of being made attractive. Expert beauticians know all of the tricks necessary for camouflaging defects and for glamorizing plain faces.

Having finished with the beautician, go to the smartest gown shop in town and state your problem and confess your defects to the buyer of the clothes you need, asking her advice as to styles that will best hide your deficiencies. She, too, can help you to look smart without going to any extremes.

Armed with your "new look" and the social graces supplied by your aunt's training, you should have no trouble whatsoever joining in your cousins' fun and festivities and they will certainly have no reason for omitting you from them in the future.

Question: Is it necessary to have an engagement ring before announcing my engagement? My fiancé and I have decided that he cannot quite afford the type of ring I prefer at this time.

Answer: No. An engagement ring is not an absolutely necessary part of an engagement.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, addressed envelopes.

A LONG, LONG WAY FROM HORSEDRAWN ARTILLERY

A LONG, LONG WAY from the days when artillery was hauled laboriously to firing positions by horses is this pre-Armed Forces Day demonstration at Fort Bragg, N. Automobile Club Warns Motorists On Holiday Traffic

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—(INS)—The Keystone Automobile club appeals to all motorists to be extra cautious during the Memorial Day holiday period.

"Holidays annually result in many avoidable traffic tragedies," said Edward P. Curran, club safety director.

"Haste is a primary cause, because most of the nation's 33 million passenger vehicles are on the highways and most of the drivers apparently are intent upon getting somewhere as fast as possible."

Extra Study Hours To Offset Television

CLEVELAND, May 23.—(INS)—Milton Berle and Hopalong Cassidy may not be popular with the kids in east Cleveland next fall if Shaw high school puts into effect a new program aimed at counteracting the influence of television in pupils' homes.

Wayne C. Blough, principal of the school, has announced that the preference for television over the three R's shown by many students was an important factor in the school's decision to lengthen the school day next fall.

Blough said that during the additional school hours supervised classroom study would be substituted in part for homework.

The principal said television was only one of several factors considered in the move, but pointed out that recent surveys conducted by other schools showed that students, especially very young ones, were spending less time at their books and more in front of the family TV set.

Leukemia Victim May Be Cured

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 23.—(INS)—Five-year-old Harold Schuh of Gettysburg may be one of the first victims of leukemia who has been cured by the new miracle drug, ACTH.

The small boy was returned to his home after undergoing treatment in the research ward at Baltimore's Johns Hopkins hospital.

Hospital authorities are non-committal beyond saying Harold's condition has improved since he underwent treatment.

The boy was stricken with the disease nine months ago. At that time little hope was held for his recovery.

Steel supply condition are tight, and are expected to be intensified further when car builders specify requirements for a car building program involving 53 million dol-lars.

Brannan Farm Price Plan Is Election Issue

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—The controversial Brannan farm price plan definitely is scheduled to become a major issue in the important Congressional elections this fall.

Observers say that whatever doubt there was concerning how the Brannan plan stood in the favor of President Truman have been completely dispelled by the chief executive's strong speech in support of it in Lincoln, Neb.

They point out that Mr. Truman's Lincoln address was the first in which he actually used the commonly accepted name for the administration's farm proposals.

Back at Washington, Secretary Brannan himself handled the rear guard action on Republican attacks on the president's pro-Brannan plan speech.

Sen. Wherry (R) Neb., let loose at the president's speech as an indication of the administration's drive toward Socialism.

Brannan countered, in a statement to the press, that the "scare talk" of "the gloomy Senator" would not convince farmers that "they are about to lose their freedom." Brannan says:

"Although the gloomy Senator says the President is 'digging the grave for agriculture, labor and industry,' they are very much alive. No amount of scare talk from Mr. Wherry will convince farmers that they are about to lose their freedom. They have more freedom than ever before—especially freedom from poverty, mortgage holders and the blind leadership of the Republican party."

EAST, WEST GERMANY HARMONY SIGN

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, May 23.—Citizens of Hollywood have grown accustomed to screwballs and quaint characters.

They don't bat so much as a jaundiced eyeball at Peter the Hermit, a bearded gent who parades along in his bare feet. Dames wearing get-ups of high-heels, slacks and mink coats are customary. It is an honor for an actor to get his face pushed into wet cement in front of Grauman's Chinese theater.

But the picture people gave a large, economy-size "double-take" when a guy named Guy Thomajan hied into Hollywood with a pair of 25-pound dumbbells.

Dumbbells No Gag

Thomajan, a brooding Armenian who looks like a rich man's Humphrey Bogart, migrated from Broadway a few fortnights ago, juggling his exercise equipment. And he promptly made it pointedly plain to one and all that the dumbbells are no gag.

The first day Thomajan arrived on the set of Warner Brothers' "the breaking point" for his cinematic debut, he had a dumbbell under each arm. He has been using them ever since, making like Charlie Atlas between scenes.

"The dumbbells," puffed Thomajan, working his arm like pistons, "will keep me from getting fat and listless."

"The trouble with actors is that they sit around all day and get flabby. By four o'clock in the afternoon everybody's circulation is sluggish. A quick workout every 15 or 20 minutes with the dumbbells during the day keeps a man's blood moving."

Guy put down his dumbbells a moment to catch his wind and explained that if he had not heard about Aunt Sophia he never would have become an actor.

"I'd probably have stayed in New York and peddled rugs or fixed plumbing," he went on. "But Aunt Sophia changed my mind."

Aunt Sophia he said is Mile. Kulanjaian who once performed with Nazimova in Odessa. This fact made such an impression on her nephew that he decided there was nothing else in life for him but the theatre.

"Since then, I've changed my mind a couple of times," he said. "On the theory that I might have found a more dignified profession."

But he is glad he stuck with it long enough to come to Hollywood and pick up a few bucks to buy his mother, in East Orange, N. J., a new refrigerator and furnace.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By F. R. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Go Easy on the "Don'ts"

Alexander Reid Martin is a New York psychiatrist who knows a lot of children. As a consultant to the Children's Aid Society for a number of years, he has talked with thousands and got their ideas about parents. Here are a few of the things happy, well-adjusted children reported.

(1) Parents listen to and accept the child's early ideas and ambitions.

(2) Parents do things with him and not just for him.

(3) Parents tell stories to children.

(4) Parents laugh and joke with the youngsters.

(5) The family does a lot of things together.

(6) Parents give youngsters "real" jobs to do. They carry heavy boxes, move furniture and do other important tasks. This makes them feel healthy and strong.

It's the constant "don'ts" that upset children. The more often fathers and mothers can do positive things like the above, the more likely youngsters are to come along in a friendly co-operative way.

Nor does this mean that there is never a time for the "don'ts." It's as Dr. Martin says: "We water the roots and let the tree grow a little before we start pruning. Our trouble is that we start pruning the moment the plant rushes out of the ground."

In other words, don't begin the "don'ts" too soon. Give the youngster a chance to thrive a little in the warm climate of parent approval.

Three Americans In Third Round Of British Amateur

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 23.—(INS)—Jim McHale, United States Walker Cup player from Philadelphia, battled through wind and rain today into the third round of the British Amateur Golf Tournament at historic St. Andrews.

McHale overcame S. V. Tredennick, one up, after a bitter second round struggle. He joined two other hot U. S. hopes, ex-champion Willie Turnesa and ex-finalist Dick Chapman, in the third round.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., the 1948 champion, who drew a bye yesterday, met A. C. Gibson of Britain today.

The number of surviving Americans was trimmed to 17 when Dr. J. K. MacKay of Britain, eliminated Art Choate of Piping Rock, N. Y., 3 and 2. Thirteen other Americans, including crooner Bing Crosby, fell by the wayside yesterday.

Coal Operators And Miners Want Curb On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON, May 23.—(INS)—A coal industry spokesman told Congress that foreign oil is pouring into the U. S. at a rate equalling the work of 50,000 miners each year.

Daniel T. Buckley, spokesman for the National Coal Association, made the estimate as coal miners and operators joined in asking Congress to curb foreign oil imports in the interest of the national economy and defense.

Also appearing before a Senate Labor subcommittee, which is considering unemployment in the coal and other mining industries, was Thomas Kennedy, vice president of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

Kennedy asserted that the importation of foreign oil is "gravely disturbing" the economy and resulting in "blind and foolish depletion of the nation's industrial forces".

He declared that American production is the number one target of "war-minded dictators" and that growing U. S. reliance on a "temporary foreign fuel" may in time of emergency bring that production to a stop.

Displaces Coal
The mine workers' spokesman said that each million barrels of residue oil imported displaces 250,000 tons of coal, which in turn displaces or drastically cuts the work of 250 miners. Thus, he said, the importation of 100 million barrels of oil in 1949 hit about 25,000 miners.

Both Kennedy and Buckley told the Senators that the foreign oil competition is the most serious threat to the coal industry today.

Stressing the defense aspect of the forced abandonment of coal mines, Buckley testified:

"It must be quite evident that the future national security of our own country must depend upon a coal industry of enduring strength and vigor. Instead, it is slowly being swallowed by foreign oil. Imports are forcing a drying up of the capital investments that are so essential to maintain adequate productive capacity."

"The equivalent of a year's work for 50,000 miners in the bituminous coal industry is being destroyed by foreign oil at the current rate of importation."

Yale university in 1885 built the first baseball batting and fielding cage.

Congregationalists Plan Mid-Week And Sunday Services

"Preparing For Pentecost" will be theme of the pastor, Rev. Thomas J. Jones, at the mid-week prayer service, of First Congregational church, Wednesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

The series conducted by the pastor, from Easter to Pentecost, have been very successful and well attended. This brings the series to a close, and a well attended service is anticipated. A crowded prayer meeting in the "Upper Room" was vital to a Pentecostal experience.

Plans have been made for a special Memorial service, next Sunday morning, for those who fell in the great World War. A tribute of honor will be given to those who served, and have returned home.

A complete roster is tabulated of members of the church who served during the war, together with those related to our people by ties of kinship and friendship. The roster has been compiled by Mrs. Carl Turner, who was closely attached to the local service unit that provided kits and comforts to the men on their departure from New Castle, and Mrs. Rachel Long. Roster has 230 names, most of them of American-Welsh tradition. The pastor will speak on the theme, "While Free Men Sleep".

Local Woman Seeks Mercer School Bell

An old school bell atop a closed Mercer county school building is sought by Mrs. George Weddell of 708 Wilmington avenue who cherishes many girlhood memories of the early history of the bell.

The bell which currently rests atop old No. 17 schoolhouse in Mercer county, recalls many childhood school memories to Mrs. Weddell. The bell was purchased in 1888 by students who held entertainment programs at the school building each night to raise funds. Mrs. Weddell remembers distinctly how she would carry oil lamps from her home to her school to provide light for the evening programs. Mrs. Weddell's father, John H. Frampton, along with two carpenters erected the bell.

The local woman spent her childhood days in Hickory Township, Mercer County. She came to New Castle 48 years ago. The school building has been sold and Mrs. Weddell has been asked to communicate with the new owner for the purchase of the bell.

WRAP POULTRY WELL FOR QUICK FREEZING

For most satisfactory packaging for quick freezing, wrap dressed poultry in moisture and vapor-proof covering. If improperly wrapped, chicken tends to dry out when frozen, and the eating quality is lowered. Also, "freezer burns" may develop from excessive drying.

Butcher's bloodproof paper and moistureproof cellophane are the two materials most commonly used for home consumption. A stockinette bag placed over the package helps protect the cellophane which becomes quite brittle when frozen. Commercially prepared wrappers now on the market include some made from rubber or latex.

It is important to remove body heat before wrapping the carcasses. Otherwise, they develop discolorations and do not keep well. Never wrap a warm bird for freezing.

BASIC BLACK DRESS MAKES FASHION NEWS

With summer on the way, there is more talk about the "little black dress" than we've heard in years. Black and white, and all black, are again making fashion headlines. The popular revival of the dressy black daytime dress is not the only fashion, but it is a fresh and attractive one.

A variety of lovely sheer fabrics provide an interesting note for the fashion for black. These flattering, filmy materials with pleats, tucks, or shirring are equally suitable for the casual shirtwaist dress or for a dressy afternoon style.

A sunback or strapless dress with a cover-up jacket is another good choice in black shantung, linen, crepe, or heavy sheer. Frosty white neckwear, gloves, and hats give emphasis and sharp contrast with a black dress. Just as smart—reverse the combination and wear black accessories with an all-white dress. Pale, sparkling pastels add a striking note to a black costume.

Also in clothes headlines for the summer season will be black or gandy and combinations of black and white in prints. Black lace is another fabric that has new fashion appeal for the little black dress revival.

The nicest part about choosing the black dress for summer wear is that it can be worn into the fall.

WASH GLOVES

To be effective, white gloves must be spotless. Keep them that way by washing in lukewarm suds; then dry carefully. Roll in towels to remove most of the moisture. Pull gloves into shape before they are completely dry.

PROPER WAY TO WAX, WAX KITCHEN FLOORS

Gone are the days when the homemaker had to scrub and polish the kitchen floor on her hands and knees. Rather than hand scrubbing, today's homemaker uses a self-wringing mop or a sponge mop and brush. She plans her kitchen clean-up time so the floor is dry before she must use the wax.

Homemakers are advised never to wash a linoleum floor with a streaming wet mop. The extra water will loosen the seams or edges of tiles, causing the linoleum to buckle. You may have to clean corners and along baseboards with a cloth by hand unless you are fortunate enough to have the new linoleum baseboards with rounded corners and base edge.

The floor must be completely dry before you apply wax. Self-polishing waxes for kitchen floors are easiest and most practical. Use a wax applicator, usually made of yarn or lamb's wool, with a handle long enough to minimize stooping. A mop of cellulose sponge also works well in this job.

Moisten the wax applicator with water and squeeze out all excess liquid. Pour a small pool of wax on the linoleum near where you plan to start waxing. Drop the applicator into the wax; squeeze down two or three times to remove excess wax. Move the applicator over the linoleum in long even strokes, overlapping each stroke. The finish will be more even if you move the applicator in one direction and not back and forth. Allow wax to dry thoroughly before using the floor.

Divorcee Of Nine Years Kills Self

BEDFORD, Mass., May 23.—(INS)—A divorcee of nine years, still in love with her husband who remarried, committed suicide Monday by poison in the presence of her three children.

Mrs. Stashia Reed, 38, died in the bedroom of her Bedford home writing in pain from two crude poisons she apparently just swallowed.

Watching and trying in vain to aid her, were the children, Clarence, 17; Joyce, 15; and Nancy, 11. The right side of her head was livid with burns, and the pillow of her bed was smoldering. As her head rolled over a fire in the pillow was stamped out.

On the dresser were bottles of liniment for muscular pains and a poison for use to battle insects in gardens.

The children summoned neighbors and Dr. C. Rogers Lord who found her dead. Associate medical examiner Howard E. Robinson gave a verdict of suicide.

Children's Crudities

Ten-year-old Sammy uses "ain't" all the time, though he knows better. Arnold, well-trained though he has been, delights in the few gutter words he's been able to pick up. And Ronnie has learned to swallow air only to belch it back up again with what (to him) is great satisfaction.

What concern these things cause most of us? As fathers, we have such misdeeds. As mothers, in our childhood we were probably protected against similar crudities.

What to do? It's easy enough for someone to advise us to ignore the behavior. But there are the neighbors, the relatives and friends whom we fear will judge that we must be pretty crude ourselves if our children act this way.

If we clamp down too hard, we may be able to stop our youngsters from expressing themselves—in front of us at least. But will they get it out of their systems or merely hide it from us? And yet, how much distasteful behavior should we be expected to tolerate?

McKeesport Seniors Are Given Warning

McKEESPORT, Pa., May 23.—McKeesport police chief Joseph Hopkins warned a gang of Technical high school seniors either to act sensible or to face arrest and a fine for their pre-graduation antics.

The celebrants painted the school cannon, soaked and painted school windows and were getting ready to cement a fire hydrant into the school lawn when police arrived early yesterday.

Chief Hopkins said they weren't quite as bad as last year's gang, however, which rolled the cannon down the school steps and cracked the cement.

City Council Has Lengthy Discussion Of Traffic

Traffic was the principal topic discussed when council met Monday in the municipal building and the discussion brought out the fact that the city has no "Home Rule" in regard to state highway continuations. In fact, the city cannot erect a traffic light, or stop signs, without permission.

The topic was developed from a request by representatives of an East Washington street business house which declared pedestrians "were forced to run" at East Washington and East streets, and Neshannock avenue, to escape motor traffic and asked for alleviation.

They presented a suggestion to the council and the traffic committee but, Mayor John F. Haven said it would be dangerous to permit left turns on a red light, into East street, from East Washington street.

City Solicitor Robert M. White commented that there are "walk signs" in some cities. The mayor said he was acquainted with this fact and, Parks Head Joe Medure said: "This seems to be the answer to the problem."

Mayor Haven said that, if such a sign were put at the complained of intersection, one would also be necessary at Croton avenue and East Washington street, which would necessitate a change in traffic lights, and which would prove expensive.

"It would be for the protection of lives," Medure stated. Mayor Haven then explained that before a 65 seconds cycle could be installed in South Mill street traffic lights, sanction of the state had to be procured.

Davis Advocates Study
He then reported permission had been given by the state to put up traffic lights at Greenwood avenue and West Washington street, and also at Atlantic avenue and West Washington street.

Council decided to study the East Washington, and East streets and Neshannock avenues traffic problem. Safety Director Richard I. Davis made a motion to the foregoing effect.

City Engineer John Z. Street inquired of council why it would not be possible to prohibit left turns into East street and Neshannock avenue to which the mayor replied: "You cannot ask people to drive through town" explaining there were no turns at Mill and East Washington streets.

Flaherty Makes Suggestion
During the traffic discussion there was read by City Clerk Jack Fritz, a suggestion submitted by Preston Flaherty of Moody avenue. He said there were many children using Highland avenue and, drastic action is needed to curb speeding.

Flaherty suggested some control be adopted, either a light, or stop signs, because of the near proximity of Boyles Field, a recreation center for youngsters, who reside in the district.

"I know the city has no chance of obtaining from the state, a traffic light at Moody and Highland avenues. The state highway department alone, has the power to say where lights shall go."

He said it would be necessary to have the state motor code changed in order to give cities control over local traffic problems. He said there is no "home rule" to save lives.

Operate Too Fast
"This is one of the conditions the city is 'up against,'" Medure complained. The only protection the mayor can give is to erect stop signs. Cars now operate too fast through school zones."

Medure inquired: "Mayor, do school watchmen have authority?" "Oh, yes," Mayor Haven replied. "They take down the license numbers, turn the licenses into police channels, and action results."

Safety Director Richard I. Davis said, in regard to yellow flashers, "No one pays any attention to them."

Concerning Stop signs at Moody and Highland avenue, Solicitor White stated: "You are prohibited by the state from erecting such signs on state highways because they are 'through thoroughfares'."

"Why not put Stop signs in Moody avenue?" Medure asked. "They are there now," the mayor replied.

The mayor explained that the double Stop sign plan, at Sheridan avenue and Albert street had resulted in no accidents there, and said they had proved efficient at North Mercer and Grant streets.

Streets Director E. G. Schweinsberg said both City Engineer John Z. Street, and he had seen a car traveling 50 miles an hour violate the signs several days ago.

"It was fortunate the autoist coming out of Grant street had sense," Mayor Haven remarked.

Solicitor White reiterated the city had no jurisdiction over thoroughfares turned over to the state highway department.

"How about getting some Democrats down at Harrisburg?" Medure quipped.

Mayor Haven quipped back: "Then it will be bad."

"Cannot be any worse than it is now," Medure replied. "Do you want The News reporter to cut those statements out?" inquired E. G. Schweinsberg, a smile on his lips, and a twinkle in his eye.

Water, South Mill Street

Safety Director Richard I. Davis advocated a traffic light be placed at Water and South Mill street, complaining that autos which wished to cross South Mill street could not emerge from the cross streets.

Mayor Haven said that, formerly a traffic light was located there, which had to be removed because wood block was on the flooring of the South Mill street bridge, and every time it rained, cars skidded past the light.

The discussion lasted some time, and in brief, produced problems as follows:

Pedestrians are forced to flee crossing East Washington street, at East street and Neshannock avenue;

Cars from Water and South streets cannot emerge into South Mill street, at certain periods because of Mill street traffic; and,

Something must be done to curb speeding and reckless operation of cars in Highland avenue, near Moody, near which are a school zone and recreation field, and better obedience of yellow flasher lights is needed.

Six War Brides
Made CitizensFive Countries
Are Represented

Six stately eyed young women became American citizens Monday morning in court room number two.

Right hands upheld, six "war brides" from five countries renounced all allegiance to any "prince or potentate," and swore to uphold and defend the constitution and the laws of the United States.

It was a simple ceremony, one that took but little time, but it was fraught with meaning and importance for those young women. It severed the last tie that bound them to the five countries from which they came. It started them down the highway of American citizenship, it gave them the same rights as those Americans whose ancestors came over in the Mayflower. Save the presidency! It made them partners in full with the young Yanks of New Castle who wooed and won them while they were serving the Stars and Stripes.

Before Deputy Prothonotary Emma Carson administered the oath, Judge W. Walter Braham addressed the six war brides. His address clothed the ceremony in the dignity and solemnity it deserves. In language that at times was almost lyrical, Judge Braham told them what it meant to be an American citizen. As Miss Carson spoke the final words of the oath of allegiance there was sincerity and conviction in the voices of the young war brides as they responded in unison "I do."

Before the oath was administered, Judge Braham said, in part, "The path of allegiance contains two parts. In the first part you are required forever to renounce and abjure all allegiance and fidelity to the old country. This does not mean that you must forget the land of your fathers and cease to remember with affection the days of your childhood. It means there must be no divided allegiance."

"You cannot love two countries. You must renounce allegiance and fidelity to the old country. Allegiance is a thing of the mind, fidelity a thing of the heart. The United States of America is to come first with you in all essential decisions."

"The second and affirmative part of the oath requires you to support and defend the constitution and laws of the United States. In some countries the subject swears allegiance to the king. We require no allegiance to any man, not to the president nor the governor, only to the constitution. Ours is a government of law, not men."

It was a day of decision for the young women, but the decision was one they had long since reached. Henceforth they are not strangers in a strange land. They are Americans, with the right to freedom of faith, religious and political and freedom of action.

The five war brides and their native countries are: Mrs. Paul Roth, Belgium; Mrs. Joseph Colech, Italy; Mrs. Fred Rozzi, Italy; Mrs. Arthur Jaworski, New Zealand; Mrs. Wallace Tanner, Austria; Mrs. Edwin Hoffman, England.

LAWRENCE COUNTY COURT AFFIRMED

In a decision handed down by the Pennsylvania Superior Court, the Lawrence County court is affirmed in the case against Eugene Henry Statti.

Statti was tried and convicted here of indecent assault upon an Ellport woman in the driveway of her home. Following his conviction in June 1949, Statti asked for a new trial and was refused. He was sentenced to two to four years in the Allegheny County workhouse and appealed this sentence by Judge Braham. He must now serve the sentence. Statti was prosecuted by the then district attorney, Leroy K. Donaldson.

Keeping That Waist Line

NEW YORK, May 23.—(INS)—If I were married to the most famous restaurant in Europe, I am confident I would look like the Beer Barrel Polka minus the polka.

I would kiss off self-control and spend my time hanging around the pantry nipping at the vichyssoise, the pressed duck and the baba au rhum. The guinea hen would have to be under glass, for mutual self-protection.

So I have long credited the 22-inch waistline of Mme. Louis Vaudable, whose husband is proprietor of Maxim's in so gay Paree, to will power.

Just before she flew back to Paree the other day, I expressed to Maggie Vaudable, so petite and chic, my undying admiration for her character and fortitude in the face of temptation above and beyond the call of duty.

"Eet Is Fear!"

"Hah!" said Maggie with Gallic scorn. She rolled large eyes heavenward. She patted the 22-inch waist, but not with complacency.

"Eet ees not character, eet ees not fortitude that makes the waist so small. Eet ees fear!" she explained with commendable drama.

"Gosh all-hemlock!" I exclaimed. "You been threatened with French pastry or lemon meringue pie?"

"No, eet ees not the calorie I fear," she said. "I am more scared of Christian Dior than of the calorie. He make my clothes. He put a 22-waist in everything. If I gain one leetle inch, he keel me. Or I have nothing to wear. And then that would keel me. Either way I am the dead duck."

Fear of the modern master of French couture keeps Maggie Vaudable's waist of her generation and just four inches above the 18-inch par set by Scarlett O'Hara and her generation a century ago.

"I hope Christian do not hear of thees Scarlett," Maggie said with a sigh.

Not Whole Secret
But fear is not the whole secret. Mme. Vaudable long ago invented her own diet to keep in fighting trim (100 pounds with lead rockets in the packets of the Dior creations). She lives on a menu of steak, which ain't bad but which certainly ain't hay, at Maxim prices, black coffee and an occasional slab of grapefruit.

Most American women who go to Paris complain wistfully that they cannot afford the creations of M. Dior and his fellow designers. So it is very interesting to find the shoe on the other foot. Mme. Vaudable gazed longingly on New York's custom-made clothes and said:

"So beee—utiful. But so expensive! I could not afford to buy anything."

But surely, I argued, if a girl can afford to be dressed by Dior, she can afford the glad rags designed in the salons of New York's haute couture.

Much More Expensive
"But, no!" said Mme. Vaudable. "I look and look. But the custom-made clothes in New York are much more expensive than the custom-made clothes in Paris. So much money they cost here!"

But when Maggie flew home the other day, her suitcases were bulging with American cotton dresses.

"So beautiful and for so little money," she marvelled. "Thees are the kind of clothes America make better than anyone else. Beautiful clothes from cotton. For one dress I pay only eight dollars and for most expensive cotton dress I pay only $22.50."

Maggie says she will be the envy of Paris in her American cottons, "so cool, so chic, so beautifully made for such leetle moneys."

Naturally, she ruthlessly adjusted the waistlines to the Dior dictated 22 inches just before taking off for Paree and Maxim's, where the elite meet to eat.

Swallows Poison After Discovery Of $1,200 Shortage

McKEESPORT, Pa., May 23.—(INS)—The secretary of a nearby Clairton funeral director died in McKeesport hospital today from poison which she swallowed after postal authorities confronted her with a $1,200 shortage.

Police said Edith Reese, 26, of Elizabeth, Pa., swallowed embalming fluid.

She had been secretary to Walter S. Waters who operated a postal sub station in conjunction with his funeral home.

Miss Reese, according to police, phoned Waters yesterday to tell him she either had to go to jail or die. Before Waters could contact a tenant above the funeral home by phone, Miss Reese committed suicide.

West Middlesex
Kiwanians Guests
At New Wilmington

Members of the West Middlesex Kiwanis club were guests of the New Wilmington Kiwanis club at a dinner meeting in New Wilmington Monday evening.

Earlier in the year the New Wilmington club members were guests of the West Middlesex club at that meeting Raul James of the West Middlesex club gave a report on John P. Flynn's "The Road Ahead," which attacks the Federal Council of Churches in one chapter.

Rev. Robert Kelly of the New Wilmington club answered the charges, that Flynn made in his book, at Monday night's meeting. He spoke in behalf of the Federal Council of Churches and explained that 96 percent of the Protestant churches of America belong to the council.

Mr. James spoke briefly about Flynn's book and John Reaney of the host club summarized both what Mr. Flynn wrote and what Rev. Kelly spoke about.

Many members of the New Wilmington club are expected to attend the dinner in Beaver Falls Thursday night, honoring district governor Thomas Jones.

Plans are well under way for Charter night on June 6, it was reported at the meeting. The club will observe its 10th anniversary on that date with a special program near Greenville. All former members and their wives are invited to attend.

EMERGENCY RATIONS FOR VICTIMS

RED CROSS NURSE Dolores Ebel cheerfully dispenses hot coffee and soup to victims of the munitions blast that wrecked a large area of South Amboy, N. J. The man with the bandaged head is Ray Downs, who suffered cuts from flying debris in the explosion of an estimated 1,000,000 pounds of anti-tank and anti-personnel mines and dynamite. (International)

Slain on Doorstep

RETURNING home alone from a church social, Patricia Swartz, 16, was beaten and stabbed to death on the rear doorstep of her home in the South Side of Chicago. Police reported that Raymond Jenko, 19, on probation for burglary, confessed the slaying. According to authorities, he said "I just got an urge and began slashing." (International)

INONU PARTY BEATEN IN TURKEY

PEOPLE'S PARTY of Turkey's President Ismet Inonu, which has held power 30 years, has been swept out by a landslide for the 5-year-old Democrat party, reports indicate. Among cabinet officers reported defeated in the general election for the 487 seats in the grand national assembly is Foreign Minister Necmeddin Sadak. (International)

Montana Winne

THIS MISSOULA, MONT., miss, 19-year-old Donna Marie Eulis, will represent her state in the annual "Miss America" beauty pageant at Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 4-9. A sophomore at Montana State university, she is 5-feet-6, weighs 120 pounds. (International)

WHAT'S THIS? A GAL IS MEMBER OF MAN'S NET TEAM?

YES, IT'S TRUE, and it really knocked tradition for a row at Susquehanna university, Selinsgrove, Pa., where Barbara Stagg, sophomore, is a member of the men's varsity tennis team. Barbara, daughter of Amos Alonzo Stagg, Jr., son of the famed grid coach, is a beautiful blonde and has great promise as a tennis star. For 92 years Susquehanna barred women from men's athletic teams. (International)

HERE and THERE • IN SPORTS LAND

PROVIDING YOU ARE NOT too squeamish about snakes there is one sure-fire method of disposing of water snakes that will get them when other methods might fail, according to Keith C. Schuyler, writing in the Pennsylvania Angler. He reports: "The procedure is simple. Grab the snake by the tail, and crack or snap him like a whip. This action will invariably dislocate some vertebrae and render the reptile helpless. The coup de grace can then be administered at convenience. "This might seem a bit complicated and risky when a '22' rifle will do a much neater job (sometimes the snake's tail will separate in the snapping process). However, when you are along a trout stream with your rod in one hand, it is more than convenient to carry a rifle. And, few fishermen are handy enough with a pistol to do a good job on a moving snake. Then, too, the snake frequently takes to water as soon as you approach. When this happens, a bullet is usually out of the question. Often, a water snake will crawl in under a flat rock leaving the end of his tail exposed. It is simple enough to grab his tail, pull him out, and the snap him all in one movement.

"I have killed more water snakes in this manner than any other since I find them mostly when trout fishing. And I have never been bitten. This is a relatively slight consideration when you consider that the water snake has very small teeth and is non-venomous. Recently, I stepped down over a bank almost into a nest of three large water snakes. They were lying together on some old refuse, and I made a leap into the center of them. I managed to trap one, caught one by the tail and cracked him, but the big one got away. About an hour later, I saw another streaking across the creek with a small catfish in his mouth. I caught him by the tail as he was going up the bank and cracked him so hard that the catfish flew out into the creek and swam away. The snake did no more swimming. Although this method of holding down the undesirable portion of the reptile population works fine on water snakes, I do not recommend it on poisonous species. You might slip."

Bessemer Rod & Gun club will meet at eight o'clock, Tuesday night. The Pees vs. West Pittsburgh City league game, calendared for this evening, has been postponed because of the death of the late David L. Bevan, whose son plays with the Pees. And now that the Yanks-Cleveland twin bill is over, City loop teams will hustle to play off the games they postponed to see the "DiMaggios" batter the "Boudreaumes." . . . An empty typewriter box is handy for carrying flies, hooks and small bits of tackle. . . . There is a $10 fine for each bait-fish or fish-bait taken and offered for sale. . . . When one becomes peeved, he should recall that, anger makes your mouth work much faster than your mind. . . . Shooting farmers' cats may give some poor sportsmen a chuckle, but causes good sportsmen dismay. . . . Gray, Annarella, Waters and Latsko each poled two hits and Boak three for Ecclesiens, while Magusnik got a pair of singles for Lawrence Indies, in their Sunday, Chumra field game, which Ecclesiens won. . . . York county sportsmen had a novel way of informing fishermen that certain streams were closed to sucker fishermen, March 14 to April 15. They hung red tags from twigs and branches of trees along the runs and streams. . . . So far as is known the Jefferson A.C., has not arranged the June mat show calendar. However, the names of the grapplers are expected daily.

The pipeless organ was invented by Laurens Hammond. It was patented in 1934.

St. Marys And Seals Win Legion Openers

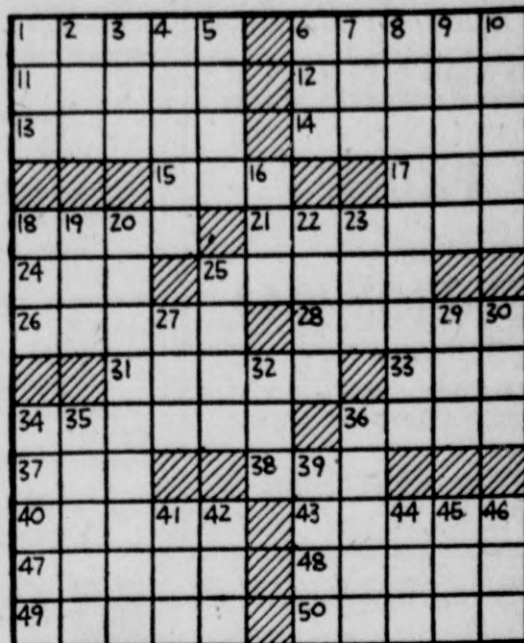

St. Marys defeated the Junior Herd 13-0 and Seals trimmed Croton 12-2 in opening games of the American Legion junior baseball league Monday evening. Guinagh hurled a one-hitter as St. Marys' downed the Junior Herd at Lee Avenue field. Wadlinger and Nicholson hit home runs for St. Marys.

New Castle American Legion team defeated the Wampum Legion 5-2 at George Washington field Monday evening in a practice game.

Don and Tom McAuliffe, top Michigan State prospects in football and basketball respectively, are brothers. Don is a top notch left halfback candidate, younger brother Tom is a speedy cage guard.

Whittaker Cards 76 At Country Club

Dick Whittaker, member of the Westminster golf team during the season just completed, fired a 76 over the weekend at the New Castle country club for the best medal score turned in during the first weekend of regularly scheduled summer events. Whittaker's card read 41-35-76 on the tough, par 73, layout. In Saturday's one quarter handicap event for nine holes, C. A. Walker captured first place with a net score of 30½. E. Whitney Gould, Jr. was second with 32. Ed Miller had a 32½, and Herm Green turned in a 33.

Over 60 members have now signed to participate in the weekend golf features arranged by Milt Dunsmore and 40 participated this weekend. Sunday's contest was the least number of putts for 15 holes. S. E. Wray and John Thayer had 22 putts for their best 15 holes. Dick Whittaker had 23, while Henry Broad, E. L. Miller and Tom Blair each had 24.
